Care and support in your loss

Inside Front Cover

Whilst we cannot experience how you are feeling at this difficult time, may we offer you our deepest sympathy.

When you have been affected by the death of a relative or friend the emotional and physical reactions can be intense and you may be surprised by the reactions that follow.

These can be unfamiliar and out of character. Some of the most common feelings are: shock and disbelief, loss, guilt, regret, injustice, envy, anger, loneliness, depression, relief, sleep deprivation, loss / increase of appetite, exhaustion, restlessness, anxiety, panic, loss of interest, tearfulness, irritability, inability to cope.

We hope that you find this booklet helpful as it has been designed to give guidance on who can help, and explain procedures such as registering a death and arranging a funeral.

Do not be afraid to seek help from your GP or contact one of the support agencies listed in the back of this booklet.

Introduction

We hope this booklet will help you understand what you can expect from Mid Cheshire Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (MCHT). This booklet also aims to explain what happens next; including information about how to comment on the care your relative or friend received and what happens if a death will be looked into by a Coroner. It also provides details of the processes involved if you have any significant concerns about the care we provided and gives you practical advice, support and information.

Contacting us

In addition to this booklet, you should also receive a condolence card from us attached to the death certificate. This booklet has details of the Bereavement Manager who you can contact for support, give comments, ask questions, or raise any concerns.

The Bereavement Manager ensures relatives or friends receive a high standard of care and support following the death of a relative or friend. The Bereavement Manager works closely with ward staff, doctors, hospital chaplains and other health and social care professionals.

The Bereavement Manager can be contacted on 01270 273882 or via the switchboard 01270 255141 and ask for bleep 3882. The service is available Monday to Friday 8.30am to 4.30pm (excluding bank holidays).

Understanding what happened

As a family member, partner, friend or carer of someone who has died whilst in the care of MCHT, you may have comments, questions or concerns about the care and treatment they received. You may also want to understand more about the reasons for their death. The staff who were involved in treating your relative or friend should be able to answer your initial questions. However, please do not worry if you are not ready to ask these questions straight away, or if you think of questions later - you will still have the opportunity to raise these with us.

It is also important for us to know if you don't understand any of the information we provide. Please tell us if we need to explain things more fully.

Hospital Chaplaincy Team

Hospital Chaplaincy includes Church of England, Roman Catholic, and Free Church Chaplains. Other faith leaders can be contacted on request including non-faith chaplains.

The hospital chapel is open to anyone 24 hours a day and is located on the ground floor in the Green Zone.

You can contact the Chaplaincy Team via the switchboard on 01270 255141 extension 2721.

Practical information, support arrangements and counselling

We can provide you with information about bereavement support services and practical advice about the things you may need to do following a bereavement.

- You may wish to contact the ward to collect any personal items belonging to the person who has died.
- You can contact the Bereavement Manager on 01270 273882 to discuss the collection of the Death Certificate and how to register the death.
- If you wish to pay your last respects to your relative or friend, please telephone the hospital mortuary 01270 612250 to make an appointment. Opening times are Monday to Friday 9am to 4.30pm (excluding bank holidays). Alternatively, you may wish to wait until they are transferred to the chapel of rest at your chosen funeral director.
- The Bereavement Manager will ask if your relative or friend is to be buried or cremated. If you are unsure you can first enquire whether or not any wishes of the deceased were expressed to relatives or in a Will.

We also know that the death of a relative or friend can be very traumatic for families. This can be even more so when concerns have been raised, or when a family is involved in an investigation process.

Some families have found that counselling or having someone else to talk to can be very beneficial. You may want to discuss this with your GP, who can refer you to local support. Alternatively, there may be other local or voluntary organisations that provide counselling support that you would prefer to access. Some examples of organisations that may be able to help you are included later in this booklet.

If your relative or friend died at home

- Should a person die at home, the death needs to be verified by contacting the GP surgery.
- After the death has been verified you can contact the funeral directors of your choice.
- You may see your relative or friend in the chapel of rest which your funeral director will arrange with you.
- You will be required to advise your funeral director if the arrangement will be a burial or cremation.
- The Medical Certificate of Cause of Death will be available from the GP surgery. It may be advisable to telephone the surgery first to ensure the certificate has been issued.

Who can register the death?

The person who registers the death should be one of the following:

- A relative of the deceased or someone who was present at the death
- The person making the funeral arrangements

The Registrar

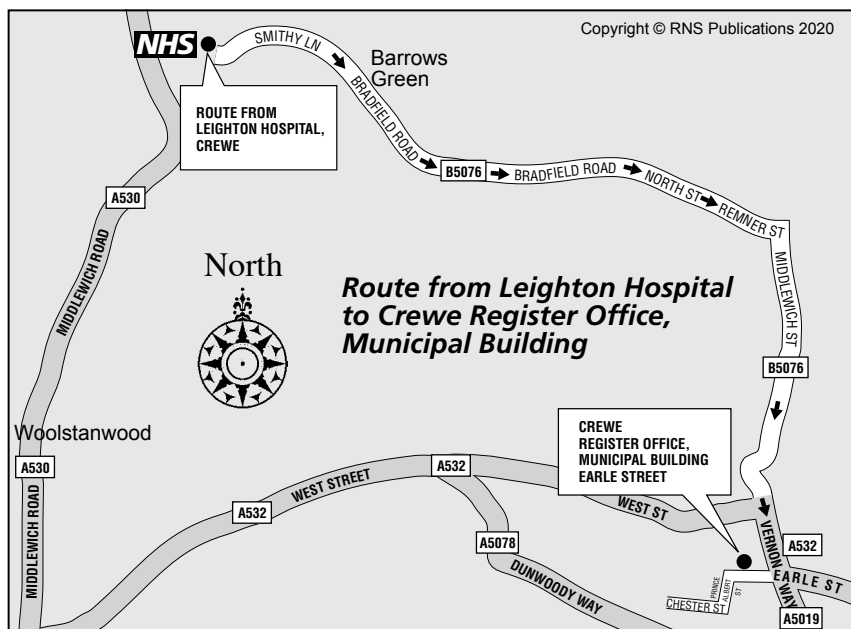

In all cases the Registrar will require the following information about the deceased:

- Date and place of death
- Full name and if known by any other name
- Date and place of birth
- Marital status, e.g. married, single, civil partnership etc.
- Home address
- Last occupation (even if retired)

The Registrar will provide you with:

- 1. Certificate of Burial or Cremation (the green form) – this will be required by the funeral director (unless the Coroner is involved).
- 2. Certified Copy of Death Certificate – obtainable for a fee. You will need one of these to obtain probate, pension claims, insurance policies, saving certificates and premium bonds, or to release funds held in a bank or building society. You may require more than one copy of the death certificate as some organisations require an original.
- 3. Certificate of Registration of Death (Form BD8). This needs to be sent to the Department for Work and Pensions together with any benefit payment books. It may also be used for claiming such benefits as a Widow's Pension. Form BD8 is provided free of charge.

‘Tell Us Once’ service

When someone dies, informing the official organisations such as local government agencies and departments can be a repetitive and difficult process. The ‘Tell Us Once’ service is an innovative cross government agencies that enables people to report changes in their circumstances to government agencies just once. This service will be offered routinely to people registering a death by the Register Office.

Who do I need to tell?

When someone dies there will be many organisations to contact. Please use the 'Tell Us Once' service facility to help you.

Please use the following as guidance to see if you have contacted everyone you need. If any documents are in joint names you should ask about receiving replacements in your sole name.

The Funeral Director

Funeral arrangements can be made at any time, although the date when a funeral can be held may be affected if the Coroner is involved.

To arrange a burial or cremation your chosen funeral director will need the green form as issued by the Registrar. Your funeral director will advise you on all matters concerning the funeral.

Financial Support

If you receive benefits you may be entitled to help with funeral costs. To apply or ask for information, contact your local Department for Work and Pensions.

More information can be found at www.gov.uk/after-a-death.

Where relatives are seeking help with the financial costs of the funeral they should first contact the Department for Work and Pensions for confirmation before registering the death.

It can be difficult enough dealing with the loss of a relative or friend without having to deal with property, possessions and personal matters. Do not be afraid to ask family members, friends or, where appropriate, solicitors to help. Future financial help may be required, and it is possible that you may qualify for help from the State. The Department for Work and Pensions should be able to help with any general benefit enquiries and will give you practical advice. Claim forms may be obtained from the local Department for Work and Pensions or from the Post Office.

Reviews of deaths in our care

Case note reviews (or case record reviews) are carried out in different circumstances.

Firstly, case note reviews are routinely carried out by NHS Trusts on all of their deaths to learn, develop and improve healthcare.

Two clinicians (usually a Consultant and Senior Nurse), who were not directly involved in the care your relative or friend received, will look carefully at their case notes. They will look at each aspect of their care and how well it was provided.

Secondly, we also carry out case note reviews when a significant concern is raised either internally or externally relating to the episode of care provided to a patient.

We consider a 'significant concern' to mean:

- (a) any concerns raised by the family that cannot be answered at the time; or
- (b) anything that is not answered to the family's satisfaction or which does not reassure them.
- (c) concerns raised through internal review processes.

This may occur when a death is sudden or unexpected, untoward or accidental.

When a significant concern has been raised, MCHFT will undertake a case note review for your loved one and share our findings with you.

Aside from case note reviews, there are specific processes and procedures that trusts need to follow if your loved one had a learning disability; is a child; died in a maternity setting; or as a result of a mental health related homicide.

If this is the case, we will provide you with the relevant details on these processes.

Investigations

In a small percentage of cases, there may be concerns that the death could potentially be or is related to a patient safety incident.

A patient safety incident is any unintended or unexpected incident, which could have, or did, lead to harm for one or more patients receiving healthcare. Where there is a concern that a patient safety incident may have contributed to a patient's death, a patient's safety investigation is undertaken. The purpose of a safety investigation is to find out what happened and why. This is to identify any potential learning and to reduce the risk of something similar happening in the future.

If a patient safety investigation is to be undertaken, we will inform you and explain the process to you. You will be provided with a point of contact.

In some cases, an investigation may involve more care providers than just MCHT. For example, your relative or friend may have received care from several organisations (that have raised potential concern). In these circumstances, this will be explained to you, and you will be told which organisation is acting as the lead investigator.

You will be kept up to date on the progress of the investigation and be asked if there is anything you would like to be considered as part of the investigation. After the investigation and final report has been signed off, the Trust will make arrangements to meet with you to further discuss the findings of the investigation.

You may find it helpful to get independent advice about taking part in investigations and other options open to you. Some people will also benefit from having an independent advocate to accompany them to meetings etc. Please see details of independent organisations that may be able to help, later in this booklet. You are welcome to bring a friend, relative or advocate with you to any meetings.

Where the death of a patient is associated with an unexpected or unintended incident during a patient's care, staff must follow the Duty of Candour Regulation/Policy (www.cqc.org.uk/guidance-providers/regulations-enforcement/regulation-20-duty-candour).

AvMA (Action Against Medical Accidents)

(www.avma.org.uk/) has produced information for families on Duty of Candour which is endorsed by the Care Quality Commission.

Coroners' inquests

Some deaths are referred to the Coroner, for example where the cause of death is unknown, or the death was sudden or in unnatural circumstances. When a death is referred to the Coroner they may request a post mortem examination to establish the cause of death, or to further investigate a potentially unnatural death. The Coroner will then decide whether an inquest is required, to establish how the deceased came by their death. An inquest is a 'fact finding' exercise which normally aims to determine the circumstances of someone's death, and does not seek to apportion blame or criticise.

We will inform you if we have referred the death to the Coroner. If we do not refer a death to the Coroner, but you have concerns about the treatment we provided, you can ask the Coroner to investigate your concerns to see if the duty to hold an inquest is engaged. It is a good idea to do this as soon as possible after your relative or friend has died, as delays in requesting coronial investigation may mean that opportunities for the Coroner to investigate are missed.

If you wish to contact a Coroners officer, you can contact them on Telephone: 01606 363393 or email coroner.office.crewe@cheshire.pnn.police.uk

If you are seeking or involved in an inquest, you may wish to find further independent information, advice or support. There are details of organisations that can advise on the process, including how you can obtain legal representation, at the end of this booklet.

Providing feedback, raising concerns and/or making a complaint

Providing feedback: We want to hear your thoughts about your relative or friend's care. Receiving feedback from families helps us to understand (i) the things we are doing right and need to continue; and (ii) the things we need to improve upon. See page 30/31.

Raising concerns: It is also very important to us that you feel able to ask any questions or raise any concerns regarding the care your relative or friend received. In the first instance, the team that cared for your relative or friend should be able to respond to these. After this, your named contact at MCHT is the best person to answer your questions and concerns. However, if you would prefer to speak to someone who was not directly involved in your relative's care, our Customer Care Team will be able to help. Telephone 01270 612410, Monday - Friday 9.00am - 4.00pm (excluding bank holidays).

Making a complaint: We hope that we will be able to respond to any questions or concerns that you have. Additionally you can raise concerns as a complaint, at any point. If you do this we will offer a meeting with relevant senior staff to discuss your concerns or a written response to address the issues you have raised.

Please note you do not have to wait until an investigation is complete before you complain - both processes can be carried out at the same time. For example, a complaint can trigger an investigation, if it brings to light problems in the care that were not previously known about. However, if both the complaint and investigation are looking at similar issues, a complaint could be paused until the associated investigation is complete.

For further information please request a copy of the customer care team leaflet which is also available on the Trust website.

www.mcht.nhs.uk/customer-care-leaflet

Independent information, advice and advocacy

If you raise any concerns regarding the treatment we gave your relative or friend, we will provide you with information and support; and do our best to answer the questions you have. However, we understand that it can be very helpful for you to have independent advice. We have included details on page 20 of where you can find independent specialist advice to support an investigation into your concerns. These organisations can also help ensure that medical or legal terms are explained to you.

Some of the independent organisations may be able to find you an ‘advocate’ if you need support when attending meetings.

They may also direct you to other advocacy organisations that have more experience of working with certain groups of people, such as people with learning disabilities, mental health issues, or other specialist needs.

The list does not include every organisation but the ones listed should either be able to help you themselves, or refer you to other specialist organisations best suited to addressing your needs.

In addition all local authorities (councils) should provide an independent health complaints advocacy service, which is independent of the Trust, that people can access free of charge. Please visit the website: www.healthwatch.co.uk

We may also be able to provide you with details of other organisations and services that provide local support, and if relevant, we would be happy to talk these through with you.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ)

What should I do if I have concerns about my relative/friend's treatment contributing to their death?

Please speak to your named contact at the Trust; the staff involved in the treatment of your relative or friend; or the Customer Care Team. If necessary, you can ask for an investigation. You can also make a formal complaint, either to the Trust directly or to the relevant Clinical commissioning group (CCG) – please see below for more information.

Who orders a post mortem or inquest?

In some cases we refer deaths to the Coroner and in some cases the Coroner may then order a post mortem to find out how the person died. Legally, a post mortem must be carried out if the cause of death is potentially unnatural or unknown. The Coroner knows this can be a very difficult situation for families and will only carry out a post mortem after careful consideration. A family can appeal this in writing to the Coroner, giving their reasons, and should let the Coroner know they intend to do this as soon as possible. However, a Coroner makes the final decision, and if necessary, can order a post mortem even when a family does not agree. Please note that the body of your relative or friend will not be released for burial or cremation until it is completed, although a Coroner will do their best to minimise any delay to funeral arrangements. You speak directly to the local Coroner's office about having a post-mortem and/or inquest.

What should I do if I think the treatment was negligent and deserving of compensation?

Neither patient safety investigations nor complaints will establish liability or deal with compensation, but they can help you decide what to do next. You may wish to seek independent advice from Action against Medical Accidents (see the section on 'Independent information, advice and advocacy'). They can put you in touch with a specialist lawyer if appropriate. Please note: There is a three-year limitation period for taking legal action.

What should I do if I think individual health professionals' poor practice contributed to the death and remains a risk to other patients?

Lapses in patient safety are almost always due to system failures rather than individuals. However, you may be concerned that individual health professionals contributed to the death of your relative or friend and remain a risk. If this is the case, you can raise your concerns with us or go directly to one of the independent health professional regulators listed on page 16, 32-34.

Where can I get independent advice and support about raising concerns?

Please see the section on independent information, advice and advocacy, which details a range of organisations. Other local organisations may also be able to help.

There are a number of ways that you can give in memory:

One off donation

If you would like to donate via post please send a cheque made payable to 'Mid Cheshire Hospitals' along with a cover letter stating who the donation is in memory of, your relationship to them, your address and whether you would like it to go to a specific ward or department. We will then ensure that the money benefits the area you have specified and write back to you to confirm this.

If you are a tax payer please let us know that you would like to Gift Aid the donation so that we can reclaim an additional 25% from HMRC. If you prefer you can bring the donation to our office at Leighton Hospital – please contact us prior to coming in to ensure that someone will be able to meet you 01270 278413

Funeral donations in lieu of flowers

Many families choose to ask for donations rather than flowers at a funeral. Your funeral director should be able to assist you with this and if you prefer, they can manage the collection and send the donation directly to MCH Charity. Please ask the funeral director to contact us if they need more information.

Create a Tribute Page

Tribute funds are a lasting and meaningful way to celebrate the life of your relative or friend and can easily be set up through JustGiving. This is a special way to add your own story, upload photos, leave messages and make donations to our charity in memory of your relative or friend. By sharing the page with friends and family, this is also a quick and secure way for them to make a donation. If you'd like to set up a Tribute Page via JustGiving please visit www.justgiving.com and select Mid Cheshire Hospitals Charity when setting up your page. Please contact us if you would like support to do this.

Fundraise in memory

If you would like to fundraise in memory of a relative or friend please contact the charity to talk to us about what you would like to do. We can offer lots of support and resources to help you throughout your fundraising journey.

If you have any questions about making a donation to MCH Charity please get in touch, we're here to help.
